

DON'T LEAVE WITHOUT...

► SPRING is in the air and for some this means it is time to explore the great outdoors. For young families this can be a bit of a trek. The age-old problem of how to carry all the essentials, the baby and toddler is a concern. LittleLife offers some interesting solutions.

Their carriers are strong, lightweight and fitted with an adjustable back system that has been designed with the same load-carrying characteristics as top-level mountaineering rucksacks.

The Voyager S2 carrier weighs 2.9kg and has been designed by outdoor-loving parents focused on making travelling with children aged six months to three years a little easier.

This carrier has plenty of helpful features such as an anatomically shaped child-seat and a soft, detachable, face pad to help to keep a baby snug.

There is also a detachable day-sack and insulated bottle pocket.

The carrier also has a sunshade and a rain cover and toy loops and a rear view mirror in the waist belt pocket.

The Voyager S2 Child Carrier retails at £169.99. www.littlelife.co.uk

► YOU can't live without your mobile phone? Well, you can certainly holiday without one.

Think of the benefits. You won't get sales or unnecessary just-for-a-chat calls that will cost you on average £1 per minute to receive.

And there'll be no 40p texts telling you that your gym membership is up for renewal and no tantalising voice messages that will cost you up to £1.99 a minute to listen to.

There will be no accidentally activating ludicrously expensive broadband and no temptation to check your Facebook messages.

Most importantly, there will certainly not be an eye-poppingly high telephone bill when you get home.

That's one good call. Another would be to leave your credit card behind. You don't have to rely on cash or travellers cheques — try the travel cash card. Top it up before you leave, use it as you would a credit card and there are no expensive exchange rates, handling fees, and no fraud risk. And you won't overspend on your budget. www.mytravel.cash.com
